

NGCV News

November 2017

It's all happening this month in NGCV - we've enjoyed hosting a visit from Russia's Cultural Mosaic programme, have just announced our 2016-17 economic impact figures and celebrate the reach and range of our Learning and Participation programmes. We are starting to see the benefits from our workforce training with Go<Grow and are celebrating the success of Green Week. In addition, we are promoting the opportunities available to the cultural sector in the region from the Creative Fuse NE programme.

Click here to find out more about NGCV

Sharing learning with Russia

We were thrilled to host a delegation of 20 Russian cultural managers and leaders from Cultural Mosaic this week, sharing learning about our partnership, how we work and what we achieve.

Read more

NGCV packs an economic punch!

Our latest independent Economic Impact Assessment for 2016-17 shows we make a total economic contribution of £94.9m to the regional economy and support over 2000 jobs in the North East.

Read more

Nurturing creativity, skills, wonder

Pick any day of the year and one of a million learning and participation engagements is happening, with creative educators turning our venues into places of wonder and learning

Read more

Big green success leads to action

Our first ever Green Week was a great success and we are building on the momentum to involve staff, the public and cultural practitioners in being greener in every possible way.

Read more

Training together, building skills

Our staff and volunteers are benefitting from the fully funded training available through Go>Grow, including IT, first aid, marketing, leadership and management and more.

Read more

Creative Fuse sparks connections

We are supporting the cultural sector to take advantage of opportunities and support available across the region to promote business innovation and the growth of the creative economy.

Read more

To subscribe to the NGCV Newsletter, click on this weblink and submit the online form